ARTIST PROFILE

Soumalya Sarkar is an independent dark surreal artist working primarily with ballpoint pen. Through the artistic practice known as INKTENEBRIS, he explores themes of identity, memory, transformation, psychological horror, isolation, and the subconscious.

His work combines meticulous mark-making with symbolic imagery, creating monochromatic drawings that exist between dreamlike narratives and unsettling realities. Each piece is constructed through thousands of deliberate pen strokes, allowing complex forms and emotional atmospheres to emerge gradually from darkness.

The practice emphasizes patience, permanence, and the expressive potential of a simple everyday medium. By working exclusively with ballpoint pen, each mark becomes irreversible, contributing to a process that reflects both control and uncertainty.
